

Prayer

Blessed Laura Vicuña,

You who are the light and patron of young people, guide us with your courage and purity. You know the weight of a heavy heart and the pain of difficult family situations.

We ask for your intercession in our own homes. Please bring peace where there is conflict, healing where there is hurt, and hope where there is despair. Help us to be a source of love and patience, trusting always in God's grace.

Amen

Diversity Showcase

Thursday 5th Feb – 4.30pm-6.30pm

As part of our Diversity Showcase, we would like volunteers (students or staff) to perform as part of the evening. This can be as an individual or as a group. Performances could be for example;

- Cultural dance (e.g. Irish Dancing)
- Cultural music (e.g. African drums)
- A poem or short story from a famous author or poet

Performances will take place between 4.30pm-5pm

If you would like to volunteer to perform please sign up using the google link below by Wednesday 28th Jan – 3.30pm

<https://forms.gle/nkNZ1DBME9tutAG89>

Diversity Showcase

Thursday 5th Feb – 4.30pm-6pm

We will be hosting a Diversity Showcase on Thursday 5th February from 4.30pm to 6pm. This event is a vibrant celebration of our community, featuring student performances in drama, art, music, and dance, alongside a marketplace of global cultures.

Get Involved: Run a Stall!

We warmly invite parents, guardians, staff, and students to participate by running a stall representing a country or culture you have a personal connection with. This is a wonderful opportunity to share:

- Traditional food samples
- Cultural information and stories
- Traditional dress and textiles
- Musical instruments or artifacts

If you would like to host a stall, please complete the Google Form via the link below by Thursday 29th January 2026:

ALEXANDER

The Door of No
Return by Kwame
Alexander

Eleven-year-old Kofi Offin has dreams of water, of its urgent whisper that beckons with promises and secrets. He has heard the call on the banks of Upper Kwanta, West Africa, where he lives. He loves these things above all else: his family, the fireside tales of his father's father, a girl named Ama, and, of course, swimming. But when the unthinkable – a sudden death – occurs during a festival between rival villages, Kofi ends up in a fight for his life. What happens next will send him on a harrowing journey across land and sea, and away from everything he loves. Yet Kofi's dreams may be the key to his freedom...

The Nature - Nurture Dichotomy

You must likely have heard it before. And in philosophical and sociological terms has -until very recently- been mainly presented as two all encompassing but conflicting theories: darwinism or marxism?

But what lies beyond this polarity is our capacity to change our social destinies, even our identities. Which one of you still thinks that we are forever restricted by our own limitations and our social background or upbringing? How much can be say it is just social conditioning and the continuation of expected social and gender stereotypes?

Three Fundamental Questions for You to Answer

- How would you define "nature" and "nurture" in the context of human development? Are there any overlaps or grey areas between these two concepts?
- If you had to pick one, which do you instinctively believe plays a more significant role in shaping who we are: our genetic inheritance or our upbringing and environment? Why?
- Also, can you think of specific human traits, behaviors or abilities that seem to be primarily influenced by nature? What about those primarily influenced by nurture?

Nature vs Nurture

But Before Answering Consider These

- Intelligence: Is intelligence primarily inherited, or is it more a product of educational opportunities and environmental stimulation? How might both play a role?
- Personality: To what extent is our personality (e.g., introversion/extroversion, agreeableness) determined by our genes versus our early childhood experiences and social interactions?
- Talent and Skills: Are people "born with" musical talent or athletic ability, or are these developed through practice, training, and opportunity? Where does natural aptitude end and learned skill begin?

Think of the Ethical Dimension

- Responsibility: If our actions are heavily influenced by our genes, does that lessen our personal responsibility? What if they are heavily influenced by our upbringing?
- Social Policy: How might our understanding of nature and nurture influence social policies related to education, welfare, or criminal justice? For example, if nurture is more important, what should society prioritize?
- Personal Growth: How does understanding the interplay of nature and nurture empower individuals to make changes in their lives or pursue personal growth?
- The Future: As our scientific understanding of genetics and environmental influences grows, how might the nature vs. nurture debate evolve in the future?

Further Considerations

- Intertwined Concepts: Is it even possible to truly separate nature and nurture, or are they inextricably intertwined? Can one influence the expression of the other? (e.g., epigenetics)
- The "Both" Argument: Most scientists agree that both nature and nurture play a role. If this is the case, what is the value in continuing to debate which is "more important"?
- Beyond the Dichotomy: Are there other factors, beyond just nature and nurture, that contribute to who we are? (e.g., free will, unique life experiences not directly tied to upbringing).

Have you Heard of Epigenetics?

Can
trauma be passed on through our genes?

St. Michael's Catholic College

College Prayer

Lord, thank you for the gift of this day and the time to live and love in your world.

May we be brought to the fullness of life by the Salesian values taught to us
by St John Bosco.

We ask St. Michael our protector to watch over us in our mission
to overcome evil with good.

Amen

St. Michael, pray for us
